

TITLE:

Profile to the Contributors

AUTHOR(S):

CITATION:

Profile to the Contributors. Lifelong education and libraries 2005, 5: 175-178

ISSUE DATE:

2005-05-01

URL:

<http://hdl.handle.net/2433/43711>

RIGHT:

Profile to the Contributors

Helen Adams works within EPPC-Severn Crossing Ltd, as does Gwynolo Jones. EPPC is one of the largest independent agencies in Wales associated with schools inspection and advisory support. Helen also offers consultancy for the Investors in People Standard, and she has formed close links with EU funded partners, via the VETNET vocational training project.

Alex Byrne is the President-elect 2003-2005 of the International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions (IFLA - <http://www.ifla.org>), will be President 2005-2007 and chaired IFLA's Committee on Free Access to Information and Freedom of Expression 1997-2003. He has led the development of a number of IFLA statements and declarations, including the IFLA Internet Manifesto, the Glasgow Declaration on Libraries, Information Services and Intellectual Freedom and the IFLA Statement on Open Access to Scholarly Literature and Research Documentation. Alex is the University Librarian and a Deputy Chair of the Academic Board at the University of Technology, Sydney where he also chairs the Emerging Fields Advisory Committee which scopes potential disciplinary areas for the University.

Tai Ai Chen is Senior Director, National Library Board, Singapore.

Liu Xiao Dan is senior project manager of Infolib Consulting Group, Shanghai Library and Institute of Scientific & Technical Information of Shanghai. She had been learnt and worked in Japan, and had been in the position as a local sales manager for NEC in China. She has conducted many industrial researches in China for customers coming from Japan. She joined in the Research on China Competitive Information, a national social science foundation project.

Jin Hongya, graduated from Shandong University in 1985, is a research librarian in Shanghai Library. As an expert at information retrieval and research as well as reference services in the library, she has published many articles and monographs on virtual reference service and database retrieval. Nowadays she is playing a key role in several projects in Shanghai library such as reference services, readers' training, etc.

Wu Jianzhong is Director of the Shanghai Library and the Institute of Scientific and Technical Information of Shanghai (ISTIS). He is President of the Shanghai Society for Library Science and IFLA Governing Board member (2001-2005).

Gwynolo Jones works within EPPC-Severn Crossing Ltd, as does Helen Adams. EPPC leads schools inspections, and offers consultancy for the Investors in People Standard. Gwynolo has formed close links with the Stockholm Institute of Education, and other EU funded partners, via the VETNET vocational training project.

Yoshitaka Kawasaki is Dean and Professor, Graduate School of Education, Kyoto University. He has published many articles and monographs on American library history and intellectual freedom in libraries. He is a member of the Editorial Committee of IFLA Journal. Also he is executive director of Nippon Association for Librarianship and a board member of Japan Society of Library and Information Science.

Xu Keqian is the Director of Library, Nanjing Normal University, China, and the vice Chairman of Jiangsu Library Society. He is also professor of Chinese literature and philosophy at the School of Literature of Nanjing Normal University. His recent publications include The Chinese Thought of the Axial Period, The Construction and Service of College Libraries Under the Environment of Internet, A Modern Version of Mencius, etc.

JiHyun Kim is a doctoral student of library and information science, Graduate School of Education, Kyoto University. She's studying information services for the blind.

Miyuki Kinoshita is information library coordinator of Osaka Prefectural Women's Center. She studied library and information science at Graduate School of Osaka Kyoiku University. Her main interests are women's information, services at special library and gender studies. She is an Executive Board member of Nippon Association for Librarianship (NAL) and a member of Research Committee of NAL.

Marian Koren is Head of Research and International Affairs at the Netherlands Public Library Association. Her Ph. D. study: Tell me! The Right of the Child to Information (1996, University of Amsterdam) reflects her interests and studies in international law, Scandinavian languages and human development, and her experiences in library policy innovation. She is member of the Editorial Board for the Journal of Documentation, and member of the IFLA Governing Board.

Ute Krauss-Leichert is professor of library and information management, Hamburg University of Applied Sciences (Germany). She has published many works on profession profile, education & training and e-Learning. She has given numerous lectures and workshops abroad at the invitation of the Goethe Institute. She is chairperson of the Commission of Education and Training in the German "Professional Association Information Library" (Berufsverband Information Bibliothek BIB). She is vice president of the German Conference for Library and Information Education and Research (KIBA) and member of the Editorial Committee of B.I.T. online.

Nancy Lee is a student at the Graduate School of Human and Environmental Studies, Kyoto University, Japan. She majors in foreign language education and has a strong interest toward the learning and education of adult learners.

Paul W.T. Poon is the University Librarian, University of Macau, China. He is very experienced in academic library administration, and working collaboratively with university faculty members. He has published widely in international journals of library and information science. Prior to his current position, he had worked as the head of a number of academic and professional libraries in Hong Kong.

Danny Saunders is the Head of the Centre for Lifelong Learning at the University of Glamorgan. He works with a wide range of disadvantaged learners who then study higher education courses. Research interests and publications include student centred learning simulation gaming, and educational innovation.

Yafan Song is an associate professor of Library and Information Science, Renmin University of China, also an editor of Library and Information Forum of Library Science, Information and Data Collection. She has published many articles both in China and abroad such as in Libri, in the 66th and 69th and 71st IFLA Conferences Proceedings, as well as in "Crimea-1999" and "Crimea-2001" International Conferences Proceedings and on the SIG III web site, and published some monographs as co-author. She is now a member of China Society of Library Science.

Ryoko Takashima is professor of library and information science, Hokuriku Gakuin Junior College, Kanazawa (Japan). She has published articles on library services to the elderly and multi-cultural services in libraries.

Peter Vodosek is professor emeritus of library science, Hochschule der Medien/University of Applied Sciences, Stuttgart (Germany). He has published many works on German library history. He is a member of Wolfenbuetteler Arbeitskreis für Bibliotheks-, Buch- und ediengeschichte, Historische Kommission des Boersenvereins des deutschen Buchhandels, Deutsche Buchwissenschaftliche Gesellschaft, Dansk Bibliotekshistorisk Selskab, and also a member of the Editorial Boards of Library History and Bibliothek. Forschung & Praxis.

Zhou Wei is the head of the Research Institute of Distance Open Education, Jiangsu Radio & TV University, Jiangsu, China. She is also the deputy chief editor of the Journal of Jiangsu Radio & Television University. She has published many papers concerning the theory and practice of distance open education, especially the learning support service system.

Genjiro Yamaguchi is professor of library and information science, Tokyo Gakugei University. He has one of the leading scholar investigating Japanese public libraries and has a strong historical and lifelong education background. He is now a executive board member of Nippon Association for Librarianship and a member of the Editorial Committee of Toshokan-Kai (official scholarly organ of NAL).

Ge Yimin is senior project manager of Infolib Consulting Group, Shanghai Library and Institute of Scientific & Technical Information of Shanghai, and also, a consultant of Shanghai accredited by Shanghai Scientific Association. He has been working for 16 years in foreign consulting services, over 10 years in market research, and issued over 100 market research papers to customers coming from abroad.

Ye, Ying (Fred Y. Ye) is professor of library and information science, Department of Information Resources Management, College of Humanities, Zhejiang University. He has proposed new ideas of analytical library science, analytical informatics and triad philosophy, and published 50 articles and 5 monographs on library science and Web technology. He is now a council member of China Society of Library Science and a member of the Editorial Committee of Journal of Academic Libraries.